Code of Conduct for Residential Visits

If a residential visit is to be successful and enjoyable for all those taking part, it is important that everyone involved in the visit behaves in an appropriate manner. Inappropriate behaviour can adversely affect the visit and even, in very rare cases, put the safety of others in danger. Mobile devices must not be brought on any residential visit. These will be removed and only returned on arrival to school.

In order to ensure the safety and enjoyment of all the children on the visit it is important that they all follow the code of conduct. Children who break the code will adversely affect the residential visit for others. Children who break the code will miss out on 'free time' during the visit. If a child continues to break the code of conduct to an extent that it is felt that they are adversely affecting the visit for others, their parents will be contacted and asked to come and take the child home. The code is written for the children, and we ask that all children and their parents read the code carefully and then both sign and return to school.

At all times I will abide by the Y6 rules

In addition:

On the coach

I will abide by the rules of the coach company which include:

- Listening carefully to the safety instructions given at the beginning of the journey
- Wearing my seatbelt at all time
- Not eating or drinking while on the coach
- Taking quietly so as not to distract the driver
- Listening to any instructions given by the driver or other adults on the coach and following them without argument
- Being polite and well mannered
- Taking all my belongings off the coach at the end of the journey

At Kingswood Colomendy:

I will always follow the rules of the centre -these include:

- Being polite and well-mannered to other people at the centre
- Listening to the health and safety information provided by the centre and following it carefully
- Staying in designated areas
- Only going outside the building when accompanied by a member of the school staff
- Listening to all instructions given by centre staff and school staff carefully and following them without argument.
- Staying in my own dormitory – I understand that I am not allowed to go in any other dormitory unless asked by an adult
- No spray cans or aerosols in the centre
- No food is allowed in the dormitories
- Being quiet after lights out so that other children can sleep
- Listening carefully when rules are explained in the dining hall and following them carefully
- Only moving from area to another within the Kingswood Colomendy Centre when instructed to do so by school or centre staff
- Using equipment and resources as instructed
